RFK Resigns Delegate Seat

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy resigned Sunday from the Massachusetts delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

Kennedy submitted his resignation in a telegram sent from his home in New York, Va., to Gov. Francis S. Murphy, chairman of the Massachusetts delegation. The resignation had been expected as a preliminary to his expected entry into the race for the U.S. Senate from New York.

Demo Platform Strict Anti-Red

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Democratic platform writers adopted Sunday a hard-line anti-Communist platform which nevertheless pledged that peace will be the prime national objective.

The national security section of the 1964 platform, due for approval by the national convention Tuesday night, declared that "international Communism has lost its unity and momentum."

Cleo Roars In Caribbean

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Hurricane Cleo churned across the Caribbean Sunday toward the sugar and coffee heartland of the Dominican Republic. The island nation went on the alert for a blow on the southern coast Sunday night.

Cleo's 120-mile-an-hour center winds thrashed a U.S. Navy hurricane hunter plane about 300 miles off the south coast of Puerto Rico, sending it limping home with one engine and two wing tanks gone, a battered wing and seven slightly injured crewmen.

Tornadoes Hit Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A series of shattering tornadoes ripped almost without warning into southeastern Wisconsin residential areas late Saturday, leaving one community in a virtual state of emergency Sunday.

Damage was estimated unofficially in the millions of dollars and more than 400 homes were damaged or destroyed as the violent winds hit four cities. Tornadoes struck three of the communities, but no deaths were reported and injuries, most of them minor, were held to 25.

Barry Scores Farm Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater said Sunday President Johnson's farm program is "based on increased government intervention and centralized management" and called for a voluntary system of agricultural price supports.

The Republican presidential nominee outlined in general terms what he called "the foundations upon which I would hope and trust the Congress might build a truly effective program."

UAW Moves To Showdown

DETROIT (AP) — With just seven days to run in labor contracts covering more than half a million auto workers, the eight-week-old negotiations on a new pact reach urgent stages Monday.

United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther, who has skipped most of the preliminary rounds, plans to visit bargaining tables Monday at each of the big three auto firms — General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

Car Hits Man In Wind Gap

WIND GAP — Robert Miner, 67, of Phillipsburg, N.J., was injured yesterday when he was struck by a car on Rt. 115 about a half mile south of Wind Gap at 2:20 p.m.

According to State Police at Easton, a car driven by Nellie D. Fails, 54, of Blairsville, RD 2 was traveling south on Rt. 115 when he allegedly ran out in front of the car. He was attempting to get to his car which was parked on the opposite side of the highway. Reportedly, a friend told him not to cross when he did.

Miner was taken to the Easton Hospital where he was treated for head injuries, cuts on the face, and a fractured right leg.

Alabama Balks At Demo 'Loyalty Oath'

Dixie, VP, Reds Demos' Worries

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Democrats heading into their national convention produced Sunday a demand for a loyalty oath from Alabama delegates — which was rejected — and a partial platform hitting at world communism and at Barry Goldwater.

The insistence on a signed pledge that Alabamians will support the ticket of President Johnson and his running mate came from the credentials committee at the end of a four-hour session. The committee put off until Monday a decision on a contest embroiling the Mississippi delegation.

The fuming Alabama delegation promptly voted 32-4 to reject the loyalty ultimatum.

The four are expected to take the pledge. But the 32 said they would appeal to the convention itself, and if they lose, would balk at signing an oath as the price of remaining in the convention.

They said they promised to support the party when they ran for delegate assignments in a primary last summer and that was enough.

So Monday night's convention session might wind up with a bolt.

The slaps at communism and Republican candidate Goldwater came from the platform committee.

The convention opens Monday night, mainly to take care of the mechanics of turning over its presidential nomination to Johnson on Wednesday.

By reason of some Alabama dissents there is a possibility, now strengthened by action of the credentials committee, that Johnson will be denied a unanimous vote.

At least some of the Alabama delegates are for Johnson. But the right of the entire delegation to seats at the convention was challenged because the state's presidential electors are not pledged to support the Democratic nominees.

The Mississippi contest whirled around a regular all-white state delegation whose claim to seats is being contested by the predominantly Negro Mississippi Freedom Democrats. The Freedom group complains that its members were excluded from the regular party and that the latter isn't for Johnson.

Pg. 1 Add 2-36—Dixie

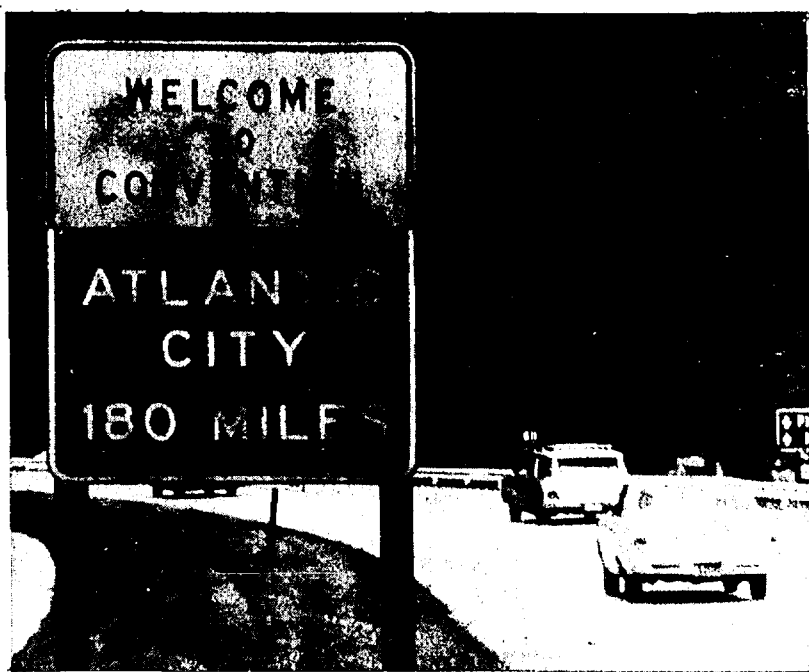

Southern delegations were called into a Dixie caucus at the hour the convention credentials committee was sitting down to decide whether to endorse the seating of all, part or none of the Alabama and Mississippi contingents.

Hanging over both meetings was the possibility of a floor fight and a possible walkout.

But the Southern get-together was a flop. It started, stopped, started again and finally was called off altogether when only 30 or so delegates turned up instead of an expected 300 or more.

There was more harmony, and a slap at the GOP, in a militant party pronouncement against international communism.

This was in a foreign policy plank, approved by platform drafters, which offered a comeback at a Republican platform declaration that Democrats displayed "weakness before communism."

Monroe Co. NAACP Hears National Rights Leaders

by Robert Van Fleet
Chief, Ottaway News Service
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — A group of 16 members of the Monroe County Chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People took a four-hour bus ride to get here Sunday and joined hundreds of other civil rights advocates at a rally attended by some of the nation's top Negro leaders.

The Monroe County group was led by Jesse Lynch, chapter president. Among the speakers were Roy Wilkins, national head of the NAACP; A. Philip Randolph, head of the National Assn. of Sleeping Car Porters, and Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, of Harlem.

The rally, a good-humored, music-filled affair, was held in the hot sun at Atlantic City's All-Wars Memorial Building. Most of those attending stood during the ceremonies. They wore overseas-type caps bearing the letters NAACP.

Among the delegates from Stroudsburg and the Monroe County area was Mrs. Lillian Carter Ramsey, a resident of St. Petersburg, Fla., who was in the Poconos visiting her family. Others in the group were Mrs. Lenore McCoy and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reeves, all from Stroudsburg.

The Monroe County delegation attended a rally that was held at the same time the credentials committee of the Democratic National Convention was meeting to seek a solution to the problem of choosing between two competing delegations from Mississippi.

One delegation, the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, is made up of Negroes and civil rights leaders, the other of all-white Mississippi regulars.

Members of the NAACP at the rally urged the seating of the Freedom Democrats. The committee resumes its sessions this morning in another attempt to reach a solution.

The NAACP members applauded a Negro delegate from Mississippi who described for them the threats he received from the sheriff of his county because he wanted to register to vote.

The Monroe County group, having left Stroudsburg early Sunday morning, returned last night near midnight.

Five Pa. Delegates Leave Convention

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The Pennsylvania delegation to the Democratic National Convention was faced Sunday night with the need to elect at least five replacements.

Replacements were to be selected at a caucus of the delegation at its headquarters at the Dennis Hotel.

Otis B. Morse, Democratic state chairman, said business commitments and illnesses had forced the withdrawal of one delegate at-large and four alternate delegates at-large.

Morse said in advance of the caucus that no sentiment would be polled on vice presidential preferences.

Discussions of seating fights involving Mississippi and Alabama and the drafting of the party national platform, from former Gov. David L. Lawrence, chairman of the convention's credentials committee, and Sen. Joseph S. Clark, a member of the platform writing committee, were on the agenda, however.

Most of the 285-member delegation, which will have 125 votes in the convention, had arrived in their seaside hotel late Sunday.

In addition, scores of Pennsylvania civic and political leaders came as observers.

Most prominent of these was Justice Michael A. Musmanno of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court who is engaged in the still unsettled primary fight with Miss Genevieve Blatt, state secretary of internal affairs, for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate.

Musmanno said he planned to attend all the sessions "as a U. S. citizen to participate in and enjoy one of the most satisfactory and magnificent processes of democracy—the selection of the next president of the U. S."

"The white man's justice declined to discuss his appeal to the supreme court of the United States to count nearly 6,000 of the 'wrong line' votes cast in Philadelphia."

"I have the utmost faith in the Supreme Court," said Musmanno.

If the high court upholds the Pennsylvania Supreme Court's rejection of the votes, Miss Blatt will win the nomination.

Asked if he would campaign for Miss Blatt against Republican Sen. Hugh Scott, Musmanno said:

"I intend to campaign for President Johnson. In fact, I've already begun."

The Pennsylvania group total of 600 persons, including families of the delegates.

Negro GOP Forms

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Negro Republican leaders, resenting their treatment at the San Francisco convention, Sunday formed what they term a "vibrant" organization with a political action policy designed to reach from grass roots to national levels. The over-all objective is to give the Negro a stronger voice in what the GOP does.

The organization denied its support to both Sen. Barry Goldwater and President Johnson.

George G. Fleming, East Orange, N.J., who was named president of the organization — called the National Negro Republican Assembly — told a news conference, at the end of a two-day closed convention:

Not A Bolt

"This is in no way a bolt from the party, or a splintering away from it. All that we undertake will be within the framework of the party."

"The philosophy of this organization is the outgrowth of the shameful treatment we received at the national convention. Consequently we are unhappy with the presidential nominee, Sen. Goldwater, and will not support him. Neither, as an organization, will we support President Johnson. We, as Republicans, cannot do so. What some individuals do is strictly their own affair."

Convention Seats Depend On Signing

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The credentials committee of the Democratic National Convention put a loyalty oath price tag Sunday on the seating of a challenged delegation from Alabama. The Alabama group promptly rejected the condition and set the stage for a floor fight.

This confrontation came to a head a few hours after the committee had put off until Monday its decision on which of two Mississippi delegations will be seated.

Resist Coercion

The Alabama delegation voted 32-4 for a resolution calling on the delegates to "bind ourselves together to resist such coercion as a condition to the granting of permanent seats" in the convention.

The delegation decided to contest the committee's recommendation on the convention floor Monday. If beaten in this test, the 32 then presumably would be asked to leave because of lack of proper credentials.

The delegation in its vote Sunday acted in accord with the wishes of Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama who reportedly may fly here Monday to join in the fight against the pledge.

Wallace, a persistent segregationist, was instrumental in having unpledged electors named in Alabama so voters can not be sure that their support will go to the national party ticket. It was this move which was largely responsible for the challenge brought before the credentials committee.

port the party when they ran for election as delegates and don't intend to sign anything else.

No formal contest was filed against the Alabama delegation but a challenge was filed on the contention that the "independent electors" who had been named in Alabama could not cast votes for the election of President Johnson.

The credentials committee heard the Alabama and Mississippi cases Saturday.

It considered them in a four-hour executive session Sunday, at the end of which Lawrence made his announcement.

To Front Of Bus

Earlier Sunday, Dr. Aaron Henry, heading the Mississippi Freedom Democratic delegation challenging the all-white regulars, had said his largely Negro group will not accept a "back-of-the-bus" compromise.

If the credentials committee goes through with this proposed solution, Dr. Martin Luther King said a "natural reaction of Negro voters would be to go fishing election day." King heads the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Both King and Henry said they are confident of the votes to force the credentials fust to a floor fight.

The two made their statement in a Boardwalk news conference in front of giant Convention Hall, with curious onlookers mingling with newsmen in a football-huddle crush.

Reject Compromise

Henry said he had just come from his delegation where they voted to reject this reported compromise: the regular Mississippi delegation, with voting rights, would be seated, but the Freedom group would be seated on the floor as observers.

"We didn't come all the way up here to take 'back-of-the-bus' treatment," he said. His reference was to Jim Crow practices under which Negroes had to sit in the rear of buses.

Officers Hike To Safety

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Two tough American colonels, missing for three days in the mountains of rebel-infested Kivu with a young American diplomat, told Sunday of a 50-mile hike to safety after the rebels shot up their Jeep.

Hiding by day and marching by night, they lived on pineapples and bananas and water scooped from a stream.

Col. William A. Dodds, 50; 1st Lt. Col. Donald V. Ratton, 39, and American Vice-consul Louis R. McFarlane, ran into a rebel truck column Wednesday about 35 miles west of Bukavu, the capital of Kivu, where last week Congolese soldiers fought a desperate street battle.

"The first thing we saw was a green Chevrolet pickup Hell-bent for Bukavu," Dodds said. Seconds later, a burst of rebel machine-gun fire knocked out the Americans' Jeep.

TWISTED WRECKAGE—Mrs. Vivian Charlotte Frey, 32, of Brodheadsville, Star Rt., mother of three, died in this twisted wreckage when her car failed to negotiate a curve on Rt. 115 at Brodheadsville and struck a tree Saturday at 3:10 a.m. She was the wife of James Frey. Brodheadsville Woman Dies In Early Saturday Crash

BRODHEADSVILLE — Mrs. Vivian Charlotte Frey, 32, of Brodheadsville, Star Rt., died from injuries received in an automobile accident when her car left Rt. 115 at Brodheadsville and struck a tree Saturday at 3:10 a.m.

Daniel G. Warner, acting Monroe County Coroner said death was due to a broken neck. She was treated at the scene by Dr. John Martucci of Brodheadsville, but died in the car before she could be removed.

State Police at Fern Ridge said Mrs. Frey was traveling west when her car crossed to the left side of the highway and struck a tree, about a half mile west of the Frey home. She was alone in the vehicle.

The victim was trapped in the wreckage and volunteers worked for an hour to release the body.

Trooper George Sabin said Mrs. Frey and her husband were enroute to the Effort Diner in separate cars when the accident happened. James A. Frey, her husband, was not aware of the crash until after he arrived at the diner. When his wife failed to arrive, he retraced the route and discovered the wreckage.

Born Near Lehighton

Born in the Big Creek area of Lehighton, RD 4, she was a daughter of Lafayette Kibler Sr. of Weissport and the late Augusta (VanHorn) Kibler.

She was employed as a sewing machine operator at Better Maid Knit Mills in Effort for 10 years, and was a member of the Lutheran Church in Trachsville.

Surviving with her father and husband are three daughters, Fern and Aaron, both at home, and Hope of Lehighton; five sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Eckhart of Lehighton, RD 3, Mrs. Bessie Koehler of Saylorsburg, Mrs. Beulah Haydt, of Slatington, Mrs. Pauline Counterman of Stroudsburg, Mrs. Miriam Green of Walnutport; two brothers, Lafayette Kibler Jr. and Russell Kibler, both of Weissport.

Services will be held in the Hunsleker Funeral Home in Brodheadsville Wednesday at 2 p.m.

The Luther Wahrman will officiate. Burial will be in the Trachsville Cemetery.

The viewing will be held from funeral home Tuesday after 7 p.m.

Beatlemania Screams:

I'm Just Wild About Hairy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Beatles sneaked into town at 3:55 a.m., Sunday eluding 100 teen-agers, mostly girls, who had screamed all night for a glimpse of the British rock 'n' rollers.

And the singing group's exit via Los Angeles International Airport back door didn't go over with some of the girls.

One screaming fan turned her hysteria to anger, shouting: "I hate you! I hate you swine!"

But the tight security measures were not of the Beatles' choosing.

Kingo Starr, the one the girls seem to go for most, told a newsman: "Our fans never bother us but they seem to bother the police and other people. We're used to wild receptions. In fact, we get quite a jolt out of it."

The Beatles and their entourage arrived by chartered plane from tropical youngsters, behind nearly 100 injured and hysterical youngsters.

The bobbed-hair singers only spent six hours in Vancouver—29 minutes on stage — but screaming youths broke down two gates to join 20,000 screaming fans inside the Pacific National Exhibition.

The group is sleeping at the undisclosed home of a television executive prior to their concert Sunday night at the 18,700-seat Hollywood Bowl where an estimated 4,000 more are expected to crowd in.

General Named Vet President

INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa. (AP) — Brig. Gen. James S. Gallagher of Latrobe was elected president of the Pennsylvania National Guard Veterans Association Friday night.

Named honorary presidents were Lt. Gen. Edward Martin, former governor and U.S. senator from Washington, Pa.; Daniel B. Strickler, Lancaster, outgoing president, and Edward J. Stackpole, Harrisburg.

Other new officers: Col. H. Wallis Anderson, Reading, Eastern area vice president; Col. F. Hunter Speer, Pittsburgh, Western area vice president, and Col. Richard Snyder, Indiantown Gap, secretary-treasurer.

PRR Freight Request Okayed

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania Railroad was authorized yesterday by the Public Utility Commission to end less-than-carload freight service at its Sunbury station on 15 days notice.

An agent, however, will continue to handle passenger, baggage and carload freight business between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

A PRR summary showed L-C-L shipments dropped from 4,724 in 1960 to 1,083 in 1962. Only 14 such shipments were recorded for the first nine months last year.

The railroad said the declining volume of L-C-L traffic no longer justifies continuance of the service, and its elimination would create no "blue inconvenience" for the public. The change was posted and the PUC did not hold a hearing because there were no protests.

Urban Renewal Okays 2 Grants

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Urban Renewal Administration announced yesterday approval of two grants totaling $20,150 to aid Shamokin Dam borough and Northumberland County, Pa., in their programs of comprehensive planning. The money will be administered by the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce. The agency also announced a $7,000 grant to Lackawanna County, Pa., to aid in the preparation of a soil survey in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Tries Heroin Just For Kick

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — It was only a foolish sort of fad at first — a couple or three youngsters from well-to-do families trying a shot of heroin just for the fun of it.

The two or three then talked a few friends into sharing the experience with them. These in turn soon induced others to follow suit.

And before anyone realized what was happening, scores of youngsters in the fashionable residential section of northwest Yonkers were caught up in a deadly game which they couldn't quit.

Once authorities got wind of the situation, a sweeping probe was launched. The results have been made public in a report which stunned citizens in Yonkers as well as nearby New York City.

Amid the Yonkers population of approximately 200,000, at least 600 youngsters were found to be narcotics addicts. And of these, more than 100 are boys and girls from families in the northwest area.

Several of them drive expensive sports cars and convertibles. Some of them have been high school athletes. Many are under 21, and some are under 18. One is 14.

Clerks Warn Of Merger

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Brotherhood of Railway Clerks warned Philadelphia Mayor James H. J. Tate Friday that the merger proposed by the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads could bring serious economic problems for PRR office workers in Philadelphia.

Fred J. Kroll, chairman of the union's PRR division of general office workers, urged the city to take a stand on position to the possible relocation of PRR headquarters.

Last Thursday, the Transport Workers Union had also urged the mayor to maintain opposition to the merger. Tate had announced Wednesday, after conferring with PRR board chairman Stuart T. Saunders, that the city might drop its opposition to the merger.

The Pennsylvania Story

Political Footballs

By Mason Denison
HARRISBURG — Highways are wonderful things. In the country, farmers drive cows across them. In the crowded city, kids use them as ball fields. In the Legislature they are used as political footballs.

On the Route 30 (Lincoln Highway) By-Pass near Lancaster, an overpass bridge "goes nowhere", ending in the dubious aroma of a farmer's barnyard with a few scattered chicken coops where empty ramps might be if someone had looked up and yelled to the work crew, "hey, we can't go there."

Just north of Nanticoke a fine wide bridge crosses the Susquehanna River, but traffic is so light that folks often wonder why it was built. (Seems it went up during the term of Gov. John Fine, who then listed Nanticoke as his residence.)

Just south of Scranton, for a distance, three four-lane highways run side by side — the Pennsylvania Turnpike, the Anthracite Expressway, and the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre highway. (Planned before Gov. Scranton took office.)

At Pittsburgh, every work day morning from seven to nine, cars inch toward the Point at the Penn-Lincoln Parkway, while 300 miles to the east in Philadelphia, the Schuylkill Expressway is jam-packed with jaleopies each morning and evening.

In a few places, where politics reigned supreme, highways have been known to become involved in wheeling and dealing under the Capitol dome.

And, at least in the past, professional engineering know-how has been suspected to bowing of political expediency. A prime example of this is the Forster Street approach to the M. Harvey Taylor bridge right here in the shadow of the Capitol. Engineers wanted the approach elevated above cross streets, with free flowing connection ramps. But political powers said "no" and tonight State employees and others will funnel traffic jams caused by cross traffic, as they do twice every day.

Interstate highways, the newest in motoring, have turned out to be "no-man's land." If you've ever run out of gas, or tried to cope with a sick youngster in the back seat, you'll chime in with an "amen." Not even telephones, in most cases.

One good thing about the future Interstates, though, is the absence of billboards in rural areas. And along some other sections recently built these billboards are being removed. The State could never do this on its own. It took a Federal incentive — more Washington money — to black out the commercial signs.

The Turnpike, with its zooming trucks and fast-flying buses, is working on the elimination of bottlenecks by building "round-the-mountain" at Laurel Hill Tunnel and by adding two more traffic lanes at Allegheny Tunnel.

The Keystone Shortway is moving rapidly into reality. (Some candidates for Governor have tried to ride into office on the Keystone Shortway.) An Appalachian highway — north-south in mid-state — is one of the most recent road promotions.

Not to be outdone by the Keystone Shortway crew, a group of State Senators in southern and mid-state counties are now rallying around Sen. George Wade with the idea of another trans-state thruway between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, skirting such communities as Lancaster, Harrisburg, Altoona, Johnstown and a few others. You'll notice this follows the cities on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad. No, it's not proposed to take over PRR's right-of-way, although every time a new train schedule comes out a few more passenger trains are dropped.

With Senator Wade as chairman of the Senate Highways Committee, the new cross-state road is already a few jumps ahead of the ordinary highway plan. Estimated cost is $310 million, but that's only an off-the-cuff guess based on $1 million a mile.

Whatever can be said about highways and politics, the politicians coming to Harrisburg these days find it's getting tougher and tougher to build a highway for votes alone.

With the Feds looking over the shoulder of all major road projects — some get 90 per cent aid; others 50 per cent — and with Washington and Harrisburg flying different political colors — we're getting more and more highways on the basis of need. And, brother, those are roads in the right direction.

Luzerne Man Waives Hearing

STROUDSBURG — Asa R. Shotwell, 30, of Luzerne who waived a hearing before Justice of the Peace Mrs. Ruth E. Miller, Stroud Twp. and was committed to the Monroe County Jail Saturday, August 8, was freed on $1,000 bail Saturday to await the September term of court.

Shotwell was apprehended by State Police at Stroudsburg for the alleged theft of an automobile engine valued at $300 from the Bushkill Roost in Bushkill on July 6 or 7.

Also, Marvin F. Morris, 46, of 6 Kistler St., East Stroudsburg, was released from jail

Community Chest Advisors To Meet

STROUDSBURG — The Advisory Committee of the 1964-65 Community Chest campaign will meet Tuesday, Sept. 1, at 3:45 p.m. in the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Atty. Arlington Williams, chairman of the Advanced Gifts Committee, said the meeting is being held to recruit additional solicitors to help the advance gifts division and to set dates and time for report meetings.

Sunday after he posted $19 bail for a hearing today before Justice of the Peace Harold Larson Sr., East Stroudsburg. He was charged with drunk and disorderly conduct.

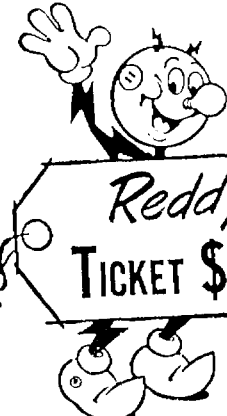

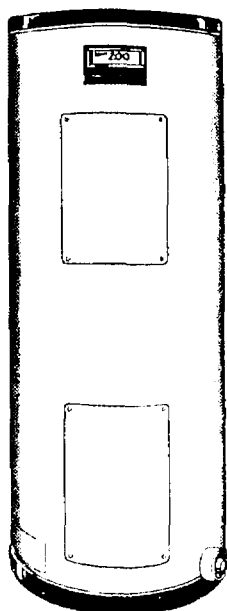

West End Man Free On Bond

SAVLORSBURG — Charles Serfass, 41, of Brodheadsville was released on a $1,000 bond and bound over for court on a charge of driving while his license was under suspension. Serfass pleaded guilty Friday night at a hearing before Justice of the Peace August Beckman of Sciota. He was arrested by State Police at Fern Ridge.

GOP Negroes Ponder Course

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Negro Republican leaders, some of them dissatisfied delegates to last month's GOP national convention, will meet here over the weekend to chart their course in the coming political campaign — and afterward.

John Clay, a Philadelphia lawyer, who is secretary of the group, so far unnamed, said Friday:

"We are going to establish a permanent organization within the framework of our party."

"We want Negroes to take a greater interest in politics. We want to encourage more Negroes to run for public office. We want Negroes to have more say in their party's policies."

Others call it a strategy meeting, and Clay said that in a sense so it is, but that "in a larger sense it is educational, looking far ahead. It is a Negro leadership movement within the Republican ranks."

Clay said that the meeting will be attended by between 50 and 75 leaders from all parts of the country, and that much of the time on Saturday and Sunday will be given over to caucuses and workshops.

George C. Fleming, who was an alternate delegate to the GOP convention from East Orange, N. J., and is temporary chairman of this group, said in Washington earlier this week that voter registration will be a primary target for the meeting.

Salvation Army Benefits Both Young, Old

This is the third in a series of 13 articles on the Community Chest in Monroe County and the 12 agencies which receive support from the unified drive. Appearing each Monday and Thursday in The Daily Record, the series was written by Charles McNett, Daily Record reporter.

EAST STROUDSBURG — A heart-sick mother called the Salvation Army last summer. Could they somehow get two pairs of shoes for her little girls? They wanted to go to vacation Bible School, but her relief check had been delayed, and they had no shoes.

Major H. G. Baker, then commander of the Salvation Army in East Stroudsburg, hurried down to the Army's Thrift Store and picked up two pairs of shoes.

That was just a few cents out of the army's 1964 budget of $32,747, of which $16,000 came from the Monroe County Community Chest.

Major, as he is called, told many similar stories when interviewed last June, just before he left to command the Salvation Army Citadel in Hamilton, Ohio.

The army here is now commanded by Capt. Rex Worthington.

who took over the day of the dynamite truck blast that killed six people last June. The army served 85 gallons of coffee and 700 sandwiches to workers at the scene of the explosion.

Baker said that he frequently was called out at night to solve family problems, to talk to attempted suicides at the hospital, to help the sick, homeless, needy, despondent.

The Salvation Army, whose $35,930 budget for 1965 includes the hope of $16,500 from the Community Chest, was founded in London, and patterned after an army, the army of Jesus.

Youngsters of seven may become Junior Soldiers, and at 13 enter the soldier's preparatory class. When they finish, and sign the "Articles of War" they become a full-fledged Senior Soldier, Baker said.

Many come to the Army as adult converts, and become members after the class. By far the largest number are connected with the Army, Baker said, but not as full-fledged members. The Army, he continued, helps anyone who needs help, member or not.

In 1964, about 406 people in the area were regularly connected with the Army, Baker said that on the average, 600 persons a week attend functions at the Salvation Army Citadel, 78 S. Courtland.

Besides nightly spiritual services, Baker said, Sunbeams number about 35; Girl Guards, 30; Boy Scouts, approximately 40; Cub Scouts, 25; craft classes vary from 50 to 60; musical instrument instruction runs around 30; and some 165 to 170 youngsters attend Bible classes during each week.

In addition, he continued, about 100 kids went to the Army's camp last summer. The number should increase greatly with the planned opening of its new camp next summer, he continued.

The Army also distributes food and presents to 1000 needy persons at Christmas, has a program for transients in conjunction with the State Employment Bureau, and supports a home for unwed mothers in Philadelphia.

Baker pointed out that each Army Citadel is entirely self-supporting, depending on collections, pledges, dues, and monthly allotments from the Community Chest to meet its budget.

Capt. Worthington said that last year, the Army got $13,050 from the Community Chest, $8,891 from contributions, including $7,800 from fees, etc.

The Christmas appeal, and $10,738 from fees, dues and other sources. In 1965, they are hoping for $16,500 from the Chest; $9,700 from contributions, and $7,800 from fees, etc.

August Market Rally?

War jitters and election-year uncertainties do not afford the best environment for a summer rally on Wall Street. But, if the stock market is going to fulfill the expectations of chartists, now is the time. Stocks ended only slightly higher on average at the end of July than at the beginning of the month, and the market foundered along with the Red PT boats in the Gulf of Tonkin to start August.

"Traditional" performances by the market turn out on closer examination to be largely compounds of ancient history, myth, and hope. The late summer rally is no exception. In the past 21 years for example, the New York Times combined average of 50 stocks has declined during August in 10 of the years and posted a net advance in 11—in short, an almost even showing. Moreover, when stocks did fall in August they frequently did so by a substantial margin. When they rose during the month the gains, as often as not, were small.

Perhaps the market is weary from the long climb that began in earnest in the autumn of 1962. Investors, like anyone else, can absorb only so much good fortune before beginning to have doubts about the future. To be sure, unemployment has dropped below 5 per cent for the first time in more than four years; personal income is on the rise.

Though the states should differ in economic and cultural makeup for a healthy and varied America, there are a few areas where standardization is of urgent importance.

One of the chief areas for standardization of laws is on our high-speed highways and congested by-ways.

A cross-country driver is bewildered by the diversity of traffic regulations as he passes through various states. He is more apt to make a serious traffic mistake when unfamiliar with the laws.

Highway law uniformly serves another purpose. In the area of explosive transportation, the laws are as bewildering as the traffic regulations.

A driver of an explosive truck may not be aware of certain laws and requirements—unknowingly, he may break the law. The results can be disastrous, as Monroe County well knows after an explosive truck killed six on June 26.

Where one state might have stringent explosive-carrier laws, other states might have too few. This laxity can also lead to tragedy.

A uniform traffic and carrier regulations committee might be convened by Congress for the purpose of standardizing the highway rules.

Regulations pertaining to street signs, road markings, truck markings, areas of safe parking for explosive trucks, routes by-passing heavily populated areas—all these are in need of uniformity.

With universal rules, truckers would know the law. Instruction in safety methods would be simplified.

Curbing Federal Courts

The rattle of old bones in the closet of history is being heard in Washington as an echo to congressional proposals that would suspend or nullify the Supreme Court's landmark "one person, one vote" decision. Purpose of the measures is to give the next session of Congress time to consider a constitutional amendment rescinding the high court's ruling that districts for both houses of state legislatures must be "substantially equal" in population.

Only once before has the legislative branch of the national government denied the judicial branch jurisdiction in a particular area in order to accomplish its own purposes. That was in 1868, when a Reconstruction Congress acted to prevent the Supreme Court from holding that the trial of a Mississippi editor by a military tribunal had violated the Constitution. The editor, William McCordle, had published allegedly "incendiary and libelous" articles critical of the occupation forces. The high court bowed to the will of Congress in that case and unanimously dismissed

McCordle's appeal on the ground that Congress had denied it authority to consider it.

Curbing the court through federal legislation to circumscribe their jurisdiction was one of the remedies considered during New Deal days after the Supreme Court had invalidated the National Industrial Recovery Act and the Agricultural Adjustment Act. Following the A.A.A. decision, President Roosevelt in a press conference referred directly to the McCordle case. And in his next annual message, Jan. 3, 1936, he noted that, "The Congress has the power and can find the means to protect its own prerogatives."

But F.D.R. moved instead to increase the membership of the Supreme Court as a means of assuring judicial approval of New Deal measures. Although this effort at court packing was rebuffed by Congress, the lesson was not lost on the high court justices. They now were able to find merit in New Deal laws, giving rise to the famous line: "A switch in time saves nine."

What Is Castro Up To?

By Roscoe Drummond
WASHINGTON — If you put Fidel Castro, Soviet missiles and the U. S. Presidential campaign into one stew—you get a recipe for confusion.

That's what we are now getting from Havana, where Fidel himself has been invited, at his own initiative, for his own purposes, some 40 top U. S. newspapermen from New York to Seattle and with candor and guile is pouring into their ears nearly everything that is on his mind.

It is evident that there is plenty on his mind.

Is Castro taking a handful of pages from the Soviet book by attempting to approach the U. S. government through a cluster of newspapermen the way the Soviet Embassy approached Secretary Rusk through John Scali, the American Broadcasting Company's State Department correspondent, at the peak of the missile crisis in 1962?

Could be. He's certainly up to something.

From all I can learn, it appears: That, at short range, Castro wants to do something to keep the "Cuba issue" quiet during the Presidential campaign in the U. S. wants to tamp it down for fear it might help elect Sen. Goldwater.

That, at long range, he would like to persuade the people and government of the U. S.

to accept him only as a "nuisance," not a threat, would like to free himself somewhat from the Russians and, therefore, to end the economic and political boycott and get some business going with the United States.

That is what seems to lie behind his move, as Fidel puts it, to "open a dialogue" with the American press, since he has access to no U. S. diplomats to open a dialogue with.

It is all to the good to have U. S. correspondents reporting from Cuba. Their dispatches are revealing and valuable.

But what Castro does not realize—probably because he does not know anything about elections—is that the only influence a foreign government can have on the election in another country is adverse—that is, contrary to its own interests. The European newspapers are not helping Johnson by herating Goldwater.

The only way Castro can help to avoid adversely influencing the political climate in the U. S. is to keep still. It doesn't come easy to that man in Havana.

Take this statement which Castro made to Bernard L. Collier of the New York Herald Tribune:

"I think the U. S. realizes the consequences of conventional warfare with us will be more serious now." ("Now" meaning after the Soviet missile confrontation.) "There have been compromises."

"What kind of compromises?" Collier asked. "Formal, signed compromises?"

"Yes, yes. Formal agreements between the U. S. and the USSR. There is to be no invasion of Cuba by the U. S. That is formal. It is binding on the U. S. government. Any government. And Russia has agreed to defend the revolution. The crisis made all this clear."

This statement is inaccurate. President Kennedy did give "assurances against any invasion of Cuba," but on two conditions: that there be UN inspection in Cuba and there be "adequate safeguards against the further introduction of offensive weapons back into Cuba."

These conditions, which Khrushchev accepted, were never attained. Hence, while the U. S. has no intentions of invading Cuba, the assurances against invasion are no longer part of any agreement.

The policy of the U. S. government is not going to be changed by a Castro dialogue with newsmen. We view Cuba as a captive Communist nation, its people denied the right of government by the consent of the governed. The economic and political quarantine, strengthened by the recent OAS sanctions, will continue. Our objective is the restoration of the freedom of the Cuban people. We are looking for deeds, not dialogue.

The Allen-Scott Report

Robert S. Allen

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
ATLANTIC CITY — Whatever other worries they may have, the chiefs of the Democratic National Committee are relaxed and smiling about one usually harassing headache — money.

This year, the committee is literally loaded.

Not since the Roosevelt era, some 20 years ago, have the committee's finances been so flourishing. There are no debts and the cash reserves run into the millions.

The exact amount is a closely guarded secret. Only President Johnson and a few top insiders know the total, and they are very close-mouthed about it. But it's not less than $3.5 million, and some quali-ed sources put it as high as $7 million.

Whatever the exact figure, it's a record for the committee on the eve of a presidential battle.

Further, detailed plans are ready to be put into motion to produce another $6 to $8 million to meet an estimated over-all campaign outlay of around $12 million — approximately the same as the Republicans' announced budget.

The additional millions will be sought in a series of money-raising events featuring the Democrats' specialty — the "President's Club."

This "exclusive" legacy of the Kennedy administration has a reputed membership of about 3,500 — which means means $3.5 million in the National Committee's till. Plans call for hiking the membership to more than 5,000.

An ingenious concept of the late President Kennedy's resourceful political lieutenants, the "President's Club" is an organization in name only. Actually, it's a device to raise campaign funds and the only qualification for membership is willingness to fork over $1,000.

In fact, it has been extremely successful. The "Club" largely paid off a big debt from the 1960 presidential campaign; raised several hundred thousand dollars for the 1962 congressional election; and this year already has piled up three or more million.

HOW IT WORKS — As an inducement to businessmen, labor and farm leaders, office holders and others to join, they are offered "direct access" to the President and his White House aides.

Instead of going through regular party channels, "Club" prospects are told they can deal directly with the President and his immediate staff. Also that he will "seek the views and recommendations of Club members in considering and selecting federal appointees."

Illustrative of how the $100 memberships are sold is a recent meeting in Chicago.

Attended by some 50 carefully selected prospects, the evening opened with cocktails, an excellent dinner and a round of introductions. Then Clifton Carter, Tex., close assistant of the President, and Richard Maguire, Treasurer of the National Committee and a key Kennedy hold-over, took charge.

Carter briefly related the origin of the "President's Club" and its varied advantages to members. On that he was frankly explicit.

"The 'President's Club' is very exclusive," he said. "Its members are assured of direct access to and relationship with President Johnson. A member who wants to talk to the President or one of his assistants has only to contact my office, and he will immediately be put in touch with whomever he wants to reach."

Maguire cited other benefits, among them invitations to White House receptions, admittance to a special VIP lounge here at the national convention and participation by members and their wives in a "midnight buffet" that the President and Mrs. Johnson are giving after his nomination.

"I should also point out," added Maguire significantly, "that among those who will frequent the VIP lounge will be senators, congressmen, governors and other influential officials. Needless to say, this will afford an exceptional opportunity to meet and become acquainted with them."

President of the "Club" is Arthur B. Krim, New York businessman, whose offices are used as headquarters. He has been very active in pushing the New York senatorial candidacy of Attorney General Robert Kennedy.

Lloyd's of London is an organization that deals in almost every kind of insurance. Originally it handled only marine insurance.

Lloyd's set up a system of classifying ships. A letter denoted the condition of the hull, and a number the condition of the rigging. A hull in excellent condition was rated "A," one not quite so good was rated "B," and so on. The top rating for the rigging was "1."

Any ship with hull and rigging in excellent condition was rated A1. The symbol now is used to denote anything excellent.

Dear Abby

He's Just Not Logical

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine and I were looking over some magazines in a drug store. I am 14 and so is he.

When we found two we wanted, we put our money down. The owner looked at the magazines and then he gave us a big lecture on how unsuitable the magazines were for decent people.

He said they were nothing but trash and he wouldn't want any son of his reading them. He made us feel so cheap we didn't buy them.

We want to ask you, Abby, if those magazines were nothing but "trash" and "unsuitable for decent people," what were they doing in his store in the first place?

GOOD QUESTION
DEAR ABBY: The question is better than "good." It's excellent. Why don't you go back and ask him?

DEAR ABBY: I was surprised at your answer disagreeing with the young couple "WILLING TO WAIT," who preferred buying their furniture, as they could afford it, instead of using a lot of cast-off junk from their relatives' attics.

They should have been commended for their attitude in this day when young couples buy everything on credit.

When my husband and I were married, we moved into an empty apartment with two suit cases. We slept on the floor until we could afford a bed.

When so-called well-meaning relatives offered us odd pieces of old furniture, we politely refused. We enjoy our love nest all the more because we built it stick by stick together.

Yours truly,

GLAD WE WAITED

DEAR GLAD: I don't know how long you and your husband slept on the floor, but if you were offered a bed and turned it down, it's nothing to brag about. I agree, young marrieds shouldn't go into debt in order to have everything immediately.

But to refuse furniture because it is "old" is snobbish and impractical. Some "odd pieces" and cast-off "junk" have been transformed into handsome and useful furniture with a bit of sandpaper, paint and ingenuity.

DEAR ABBY: I laughed to myself when I read about the bride who said she would rather buy one "good" piece of furniture, as they could afford it, than to set up housekeeping with a lot of "junk" from her relatives' attics.

When my husband and I were married five years ago, we furnished our home with discarded items from our relatives' attics, but I'm glad we did.

Now we have three healthy, lively youngsters, all under four years of age.

We don't have to worry about any of them getting jelly on our $500 living room sofa because we don't have one. Sign me—

Speaking Of Your Health:

First Aid For Choking

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.
CHOKING on small objects can be a severe hazard to babies and young children.

Infants under a year old, if they do swallow any foreign body at all, are most apt to swallow safety pins — both open and closed.

Youthful appetites and curiosity seem to know no limits. Small children will put into their mouths almost anything that will fit. Older children who play with bean shooters usually keep the ammunition in their mouths and sometimes inhale the pellets into their windpipes.

People of all ages should be careful in eating watermelons and oranges. Their slippery seeds can easily slide into the air passages.

Harder To Detect
Denture wearers are reminded that when the normal sensitive palate of the mouth is covered by a plate, it is more difficult to detect bones, especially in fish and poultry.

The following precautions will help to prevent such accidents:

- 1) Don't put anything in your mouth that cannot be eaten.
- 2) Don't talk or laugh with food in your mouth.
- 3) Don't try to eat while you are out of breath.
- 4) Don't cram your mouth full of food, and don't try to swallow great quantities at one time.
- 5) Chew slowly and thoroughly.
- 6) Don't test your aim by "shooting" nuts into your mouth.
- 7) Don't leave objects of "swallowable" size where they might find their way into the big mouths of little children.
- 8) Don't let children eat while running or actively playing.

9) Don't feed nuts or small hard candies to toddlers. Peanuts especially seem to be trouble makers for very young children.

10) Don't sleep with removable dentures in your mouth.

Jamming Possibility
When something does get "stuck," heroic attempts to dislodge it by sticking a finger down the victim's throat may result in jamming the object into the windpipe and completely obstructing breathing.

There is a much simpler, safer and more effective method. Place the victim across a bed or a chair, face downwards, with the chest, shoulders and head hanging over the edge. In such a position, he can often cough it up himself.

Held Upside Down
Babies and small children can be held upside down and given a smart (but not too vigorous) slap between the shoulder blades. This will usually dislodge the foreign body.

Calm, unburied assistance is the greatest contribution a first aider can make to his "patient." There is nothing more gratifying than rescuing a fellow man from danger or disaster. Whenever possible, get someone else to help you. Sharing the responsibility will not lessen the inner rewards.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

'I'm Thwarted'

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — If you would like to know why I'm in Atlantic City it's because I'm thwarted. Instead of coming here at a time when nothing is going on except some kind of convention, I wanted to go to Alaska and run for U.S. Senator.

I've never been to Alaska. I thought I'd be a natural for its senatorial candidate. I had coached myself on local landmarks so I wouldn't make any blunder such as that attributed to Robert F. Kennedy of Massachusetts on entering New York.

The Attorney General is said to have asked a New Yorker, "Is this the East River?" I had rehearsed against ever being caught like that. No Alaskan would have heard me asking, "Is this the Alaska Railroad?"

Because of my complete unfamiliarity with Alaska it was only natural for me to think it was in the bag. And not a carpathag either. I wouldn't have gone in with a carpathag because, if you invade a State with a carpathag, it is only a matter of time until somebody calls you a carpathagger.

Besides, it's hard to find a real good carpathag these days. They've gone out of fashion with bagmen.

But, when I made a pre-nomination pledge to the Alaskans that I would dig up a carpathag somewhere so as to be a carpathagger, they didn't even have one of their mayors welcome me with an inscrutable smile.

Instead they just noncommittally around, letting ridiculous obstacles "block my way."

To begin with, the money-hungry creatures told me I would have to pay $100 to get entered in their primary. Who ever heard of an aspirant for public office spending $100?

Why that must be more than Gov. Rockefeller, Senator Goldwater, and all the Democrats put together if they can be put together) will spend this year.

But even if I could have raised the $100, maybe by threatening the State Department that I would turn Communist, it would have been fruitless. As I inquired just when Alaska proposed to hold this C note primary I was told it had been held on Aug. 11, I asked, very sarcastically, why I should pay $100 for a primary that had already been held, but they apparently couldn't think of an answer.

Next they told me that to become an entry I'd have to do 30 days in the precinct. If there's one thing I don't like doing, it's 30 days! On top of that I was told I'd have to be an inhabitant of the State for one day and a resident for one year.

When I asked what's the difference between an inhabitant and a resident I was told you can reside in a place without being an inhabitant, but you can't habituate a place without being a resident.

That's the kind of discouraging stuff they put in the way of selfless aspirants like me, although I made them this solemn pledge:

"If I am elected I will serve me to the best of my ability."

As if this weren't enough to put the rug out from under a carpathagger I was told there was still one minor obstacle to my altruistic willingness to put office before State. There's no Senator up for election in Alaska this year.

This was the last straw. I turned my footsteps a way from Anchorage to Atlantic City muttering:

"Some States just don't deserve to have an outsider offer to serve them!"

Off The Record:

—By BOB CLARK

Wire Service Treatment

(First of two articles on how the nation's top two wire services look at the upcoming presidential election.)

Two things are definitely clear, Earl J. Johnson, president of United Press, says.

1. The newspapers will be more deeply involved in the election campaigns than in previous years because politicians have chosen to make them an issue, and,

2. We are probably in for an uncommonly brutal campaign. If the nominees themselves don't make it so their henchmen will. Predictions forecast that the campaigns will be ugly and squalid.

Johnson Notes.

"Four years ago reporting didn't emerge as an issue until late autumn when newspaper treatment of Kennedy and Nixon was subjected to numerous surveys. These were largely inspired by partisanship and were released to show that one or the other candidate got a raw deal. In the end not much was proved."

"This year the back lash in some cases from paper to against the newspapers (and paper) began before the GOP met in San Francisco. The criticism seems to be no more valid than it was in 1960. The reports of hot-rodding and defoliation and car-pulling were not dreamed up by the reporters."

"Of course they were amplified later by cartoonists and columnists, which is normal. But such oddities and ambiguities are not likely to cost either nominee many votes. They have no bearing on the qualifications of either man for the highest office or on the different philosophies of government the candidates stand for."

"Another thing that is different this year is that so many columnists seem to have taken sides far ahead of the editors publishing their columns. This puts conflicting views and arguments into circulation in unexpected places and may be, as long as it lasts, a healthy cross-pollination."

"On the West Coast, I ask myself, which were sure to go for Goldwater printing teams of special dispatches from eastern newspapers which were against him. This practice may taper off once the campaigns heat up. It is a result of big papers subscribing to each other's specials and commentators, though far apart on editorial policy."

"Even the European newspapers have become issues in the campaigns in recent weeks. Why shouldn't they say what they think? Newspapers in this country frequently evaluate European statesmen."

In England a few years ago newspapers were all-out for Adlai Stevenson, but it didn't do him much good at the precinct level in the U.S.A.

"The U.P.I. and AP are not likely to be involved seriously in all this because their role is to report accurately and as comprehensively as news values warrant what the candidates do and say. The AP went a shade beyond that in 1950 by conducting late October polls, which indicated that Kennedy was ahead. Some pro-Kennedy newspapers played the results as if they were official conclusions. However, it would be hard to say whether such stories affected the popular vote."

"Our own reportorial practices in 1964 are about the same as they've always been. We don't subscribe to the theory that each candidate is entitled to the same amount of space on the wire every day regardless of what he does or says. The one that makes the biggest news gets the biggest play in the service. There is no guarantee that this will result in a perfect balance by election day."

"In 1924 Bob La Follette ran on a third-party ticket against Cal Coolidge and John W. Davis. Fighting Bob was on the go every minute. He made more headlines than the other two combined. Paul Mellon was on the campaign trail with La Follette for the U.P. that year and his dispatches naturally were more exciting than those from the Coolidge and Davis camps which were less active."

Subscribers complained that we were favoring La Follette, but we were only covering the news and that's all we will be doing this time."

In 1924 Fighting Bob got roughly half as many votes as Davis, and Davis roughly half as many as Silent Cal.

In Barrett Twp.

Barrett Twp. Police investigated a two-car crash on Upper Seese Hill Rd. in Barrett Twp. Sunday at 10:20 a.m. The accident which happened at 1:30 a.m. Sunday involved Ivan V. Wicks Jr., 37, of Canadensis and Harold C. Seese, 58, of Dunmore, Pa. According to Patrolmen Daniel M. VanWhy of Barrett Twp. Police, Wicks was traveling south on Upper Seese Hill Rd. when his car crossed the center line and collided with the vehicle driven by Seese.

Wicks was arrested for reckless driving police said. No injuries were reported.

2 Escape Injury

Two persons escaped injury in a two-car crash a half-mile west of Pen Argyl Saturday at 5:10 p.m.

According to State Police at Easton, Charles C. Musselman, 64, of Pen Argyl, RD 1, was traveling south on Gravel Mill Rd. when the rear end collision with a car driven by Glenn Overpeck, 23, of Saylorsburg, RD 1 occurred. There were no injuries reported.

A Weatherly, Pa. man was arrested for failing to yield the right away as the result of a two-car crash at the intersection of Rt. 115 and Rt. 940 at Blakeslee Corners Sunday at 3 a.m.

According to State Police at Fernridge, William Acker, 67, of Weatherly, RD 2, attempted a left turn in front of a south-bound car driven by Bishop Nelson, 28, of Monroe, La.

About $500 damage was estimated. No injuries were reported.

State Police at Lehighon investigated two separate accidents over the week end in which about $2,000 damage was caused.

West End

Thomas J. Glenn, 21, of Bethlehem, Pa., failed to negotiate a curve on the road apparently because he was traveling too fast for conditions and upset and struck a parked car on the American Hotel parking lot on Rt. 29 about 11 and a half miles north of Lehighon in Kresgeville on Saturday at 1:25 p.m., Lehighon State Police said.

The parked vehicle was owned by Allen E. Serfass, 38, of Kunklestown.

About $600 damage was estimated to the Glenn vehicle; and about $200 to the Serfass vehicle. No injuries were reported.

Patricia A. Arnold, 23, of Walnutport, RD 2, escaped injury in a one-car crash on Rt. 29 Sunday at 7:20 a.m.

According to State Police at Lehighon, she was traveling south on Rt. 29 when she lost control of the vehicle, crossed the divider and struck rocks on the east side of the highway.

About $1,200 damage was estimated to the Arnold vehicle.

At Milford

State Police at Milford investigated two separate accidents over the weekend. One caused injuries to an Egypt, Pa., man.

David Kern, 22, of Egypt failed to negotiate a right hand curve about seven miles west of Hawley on Sunday about 1:15 a.m., went off the highway, lost control of his car. The car struck a telephone pole snapping it in two, according to State Police at Milford.

Kern was taken to the Wayne County Hospital where he was treated for cuts on the forehead and released.

About $150 damage was reported to the car.

Edward Allicko, 45, of Detroit, Mich., escaped injury in a one-car crash on Rt. 6 13 miles west of Milford Saturday at 9:45 p.m.

Allicko was traveling west on Rt. 6 when his car failed to negotiate a turn, went off the highway and struck the guard rails, State Police at Milford said.

Calhoun; 'Pike Signs Inadequate

STROUDSBURG — The executive director of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau has complained highway signs directing motorists from the Pennsylvania Turnpike to the Poconos are inadequate.

Commenting on the overall lack of adequate signs on regional highways, John C. Calhoun said:

"This summer people going to Mt. Pocono or Cresco from Philadelphia and the south by the Pennsylvania Turnpike are routed to the Lehigh Valley Interchange and Rt. 512. Rt. 940 is closed for re-building.

"But these travelers complain continually that the sign on Rt. 22 at the Lehigh Valley Interchange, directing them to the Poconos, is so small it is missed.

"It's been called 'crummy' and 'dirty' besides."

Members of the resort industry also have urged the need for the completion of Interstate Rt. 80 through New Jersey from the George Washington bridge at New York City.

Richard Edgerston, manager of The Inn at Buck Hill Falls, largest resort in the Poconos, said:

"When this highway is completed it will mean a great deal to the economy of the Poconos. It will not only aid the resorts but the new Pocono Art Center and industry in the area. It will cut traveling time from New York by half an hour to an hour.

Calhoun also pointed out that the new four-lane highway from Wind Gap to Stroudsburg at the turnoff of Rt. 611 the only directional sign is "Bartonsville to Federal Rt. 80."

"We know that the State Highways Dept. rule is to name only the next nearest town. But you will note that this rule often is broken. When Rt. 209 turns west the sign says 'Lehighon' rather than 'Kresgeville' which is the nearest town.

"We certainly feel that Mt. Pocono should be on the turn-off sign."

Maurice Berry, engineer in charge of highway signs at the Allentown district office of the highway department agreed that while the rule is to name the closest community "this policy often is not spelled out."

"Changes may be made in some locations as has been done at Fogelsville where more distant places are named.

"In fact, we have recommended to Harrisburg that there be an overhead sign on Rt. 209 where the road branches off to Bartonsville. If this is approved we may be able to put on additional information," Berry explained.

W. Reese Super, executive director of the Allentown Chamber of Commerce, agrees with Calhoun that signs along federal and state highways leaves something to be desired.

"People coming (to Allentown) from Scranton or Mt. Pocono complain there is not a single highway directional sign along the whole way until they get to Rt. 22.

"We realize that none of the highways from the Poconos lead directly to Allentown, but the city is the largest in the area and the general destination of most travelers. Therefore, the highway department should recognize this," Super said.

Monroe's Democratic Head Gets State Auditor Post

STROUDSBURG — James V. Cadue of Tobyhanna, Monroe County Democratic chairman, has been appointed to a job in the Democratic-controlled state Auditor General's office in Harrisburg.

Cadue, named to the post of auditor Monday, said he has been assigned to the Firemen's Relief Assn. He said the association has control of funds derived from out of state insurance companies doing business in Pennsylvania.

Cadue pointed out the money is used to aid volunteer firemen injured, disabled or killed in the line of duty.

He said the territory covered by the job has not yet been determined, but indicated it will include several surrounding counties.

The Auditor General's office is one of three state agencies controlled by the Democrats. The other two are the Treasury Dept. and Dept. of Internal Affairs.

Mt. Pocono Rotary Hosts 19 Clubs

MT. POCONO — The Mt. Pocono Rotary Club was host to the 1964-65 Institute of Rotary District 741 on August 19 at Skyline Inn in Mt. Pocono.

Rotarians from Mt. Pocono, Stroudsburg, Pocono Mountains, Top of the Poconos, Clark Summit, Dallas, Dunmore, Freeport, Hawley, Jim Thorpe, Lansford, Lehighon, Monroe, Nesquehoning, Newfoundland, Pittston, Scranton, Weatherly, and Wyoming took part.

The meeting was held for officers and committee chairmen of local Rotary clubs. Walter Peeney of Stroudsburg and Elmer Daniels of Pocono Mountains, past district governors, spoke.

Daniels also led a discussion group on the Rotary student exchange program.

Mrs. Walters' Rites Conducted

EAST STROUDSBURG — Funeral services for Mrs. Jessie M. Walters, 80, of 420 Chestnut St., East Stroudsburg, were held Sunday at 2 p.m. from the Lanterman Funeral Home, the Rev. William F. Wunder officiating.

Burial was in Prospect Cemetery.

Palbearers were Robert Rockefeller, Howard Cramer, John Walek, Lafayette Strunk, Clarence Rapp and Walter Bensley.

Mrs. Spirito, S-burg, Dies

STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Selma M. Spirito, 12 Collins St., Stroudsburg, died suddenly at her home late last night.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by the William H. Clark Funeral Home of Stroudsburg.

Fish Market Still Goes On

STROUDSBURG — "I ain't down yet," might well be the motto of Bill's Fish Market, which was partially razed by fire Sunday about 2:40 p.m.

The proprietor said that business will continue as usual.

The fire, which apparently had a good start, charred the back of the building where it was confined, Nelson Lightner Jr., Stroudsburg fire chief said.

Reportedly, many people throughout Stroudsburg could smell the smoke. The fire was started by an overheated refrigerator compressor unit, Lightner said.

A car owned by Truman Newhart was removed from the area before it was damaged.

The market is owned by Mrs. Mary Witte of 723 Monroe St., Stroudsburg. Russell Nevil, a Stroudsburg fireman turned in the alarm at the firehouse.

Blue Valley Crowds Set New Record

BANGOR — The 1964 Blue Valley Farm Show attracted the largest crowds in the fair's 19 year history, according to Earl Krosler, president of the Bangor Exchange Club.

Krosler estimated more than 11,000 persons attended the Exchange Club sponsored farm show.

The fair was climaxed Saturday night with the crowning of Phyllis Miller as queen of the show. She was crowned by Jeanette Reibman, state assemblywoman from Easton.

Miss Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Miller of Bangor RD 2, compiled the most points in the home economics exhibits at the show. She will be a senior at Bangor High School this year.

Farm show officials said that attendance was down somewhat Friday night due to the weather. They were, however, very happy with the overall success of the annual event.

Main feature of the first day of the fair was the judging of FFA member's exhibits. Kenneth Brewer of Bangor, RD 2, took grand champion with his Ayrshire.

Other top winners were, Ayrshires, reserve champion, Ray Mack of Pen Argyl RD 1; Holsteins, grand champion, Donald Ackerman of Nazareth, RD 3; reserve, Bill Bush Jr. of Bangor, RD 2; Guernseys, grand champion, Norman Koeller of Bangor, RD 2; and reserve, Larry Stenlake of Bangor.

Other features of the agriculture and fun show were Kiddie rides, a pet parade, tractor driving contests, a magician, and a teen dance.

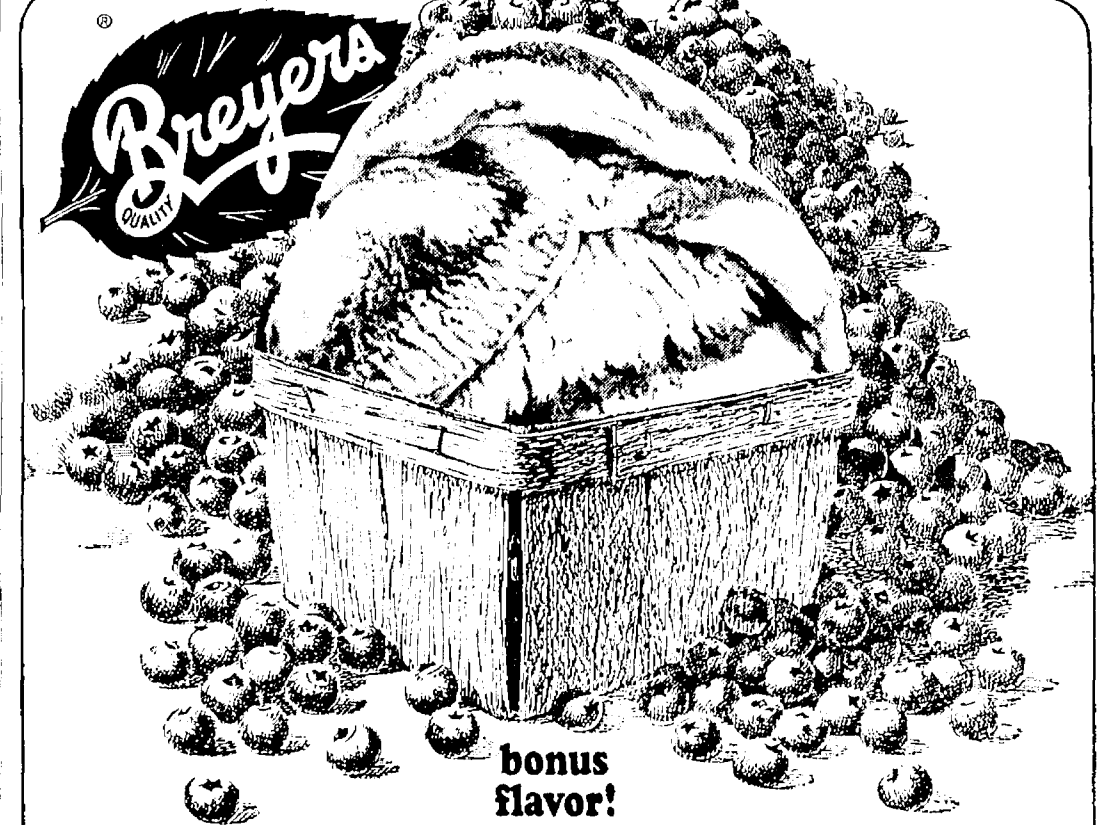

Winners of Exchange Club awards were James Caparotto of Bangor; Luther Hower of Wind Gap; Ella Jones of Bangor; Chester Apple of Bangor; Paul Koome of Easton; Stanley Traves of Bangor; Arthur Baker of Bangor; Nelson Eschenfelder of Stockertown.

Control Center Vital Area Organ

By Stan Schaffer
Daily Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Control center radio operator, Kenneth W. Ledwith, 61, of 806 Main St., Stroudsburg, is one of the men you talk with when you need help.

Ledwith, a former textile executive in the garment section of New York for 35 years, has worked in the control center since its beginning on June 1, 1959.

In his position as radio operator, he serves in a dual capacity.

Ledwith receives and dispatches radio calls to the various mobile and stationary units on the system.

The control center, situated in the Stroudsburg municipal building, is managed and was founded through the efforts of John (Jack) B. Tretheway, Stroudsburg chief of police.

Community Participation
It is regulated by a control center board composed of borough officials of the various boroughs on the hookup. The board is represented by Tretheway and James A. Somers of Stroudsburg; Peary Hunt and Kenneth Wiley, councilmen, both of East Stroudsburg; Jack LaBar of Delaware Water Gap, and David Price of Barrett Twp.

Members of the control center board meet once a month in the Stroudsburg municipal building at which time they discuss any business that has come before the control center.

The center is supported by funds paid in on a per capita basis by the citizens of the communities which utilize the services of the control center.

Many Services
Services rendered by the control center include: maintaining vigilance on security machines for Olljak Mfg. Co., and Sherwin Mfg. Co., both in Stroudsburg. These machines which are located in the control center give the alarm in case of fire or any other trouble which might occur in one of the plants.

In addition, the center relays all police, fire, ambulance and emergency calls of the various departments. The center relays a yearly average of more than 70,000 calls. Each one of the calls and the time received or transmitted is logged on a log sheet by the operator on duty.

The three full-time operators, Jack A. Wyckoff, Karl H. Dickl, Elwood F. Hubbard and Harry Anton, relief operator, are the men which staff the control center. The men maintain a 24-hour watch.

Originally, only Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg, and John Doebling, deputy game protector of Monroe County were on the control center hookup. Since its establishment, however, Delaware Water Gap, Barrett Twp., and the Monroe County Police Reserve have been added.

Additional Units Needed
Tretheway, control center manager, said that he hopes the time will come when more of the surrounding communities will join the control center radio hookup. This would provide more efficient and effective service for the citizens of the communities through their public facilities.

Bear On Loose
"The most interesting thing that has happened to me while I have been working here," Ledwith said, "was the time a black bear was on the loose in the North Fifth Street section of Stroudsburg," he said.

Concerned Mothers
"It was just about the time of day when school is let out. I was bombarded with telephone calls from mothers who wanted to know if it was okay for their children to come home. They reported seeing the bear going from one back yard to another in search of something to eat," Ledwith said.

"Finally," he went on, "John Doebling, who didn't want to hurt the animal managed to chase it out of the yards and up into the woods," Ledwith said.

Tries Florida
His wife, Vivian L. (Fredericks) Ledwith was a former employee of The Daily Record when it was located at 18 N. 7th St., Stroudsburg.

"The textile company I worked for liquidated in 1937. My wife and I tried living in Florida for about a year and a half. We didn't like it and since she was a native of Stroudsburg, we returned here and I started with the control center," Ledwith said.

Escapes Reds
BERLIN (AP) — A 21-year-old East Berliner, wearing a skindiver's mask, swam to West Berlin without being detected by Communist border guards, West Berlin police said Wednesday.

Police declined to give details of the escape, saying only the man swam through a body of water which forms the border on the southern outskirts of West Berlin.

CONTROL TO 62—Kenneth W. Ledwith who is one of the control center radio operators in the Stroudsburg Municipal Building is shown transmitting a call to one of the mobile units on the radio hookup.

THE PAINT EXHIBIT AT NEW YORK WORLD'S FAIR

Lookout Sets Up Exhibition

PEN ARGYL — The Labor Day committee of the Lookout Volunteer Fire Co. has decided on the order of the drum and bugle corps exhibition to be held Labor Day at Weona Park at 6 p.m.

Lookout officials said the order would be the Blue Eagles of Wind Gap, the Sentinels of Emmaus, the Grenadiers of East Stroudsburg, and the Yellow Jackets of Bangor.

It was pointed out that these groups would present an exhibition and not a compete against each other.

It was requested by Charles Broad, chairman, that residents along the parade route decorate their homes. The parade route, announced by William Savercool, parade chairman, will form at the firehouse and travel south on Robinson Ave., to Pennsylvania Ave., west on Pennsylvania to D Street, south on D Street to Main Street, east on Main Street to Robinson Ave., north on Robinson to Pennsylvania Ave., to East Main Street, and east on East Main Street to the disbanding area at Weona Park.

Clubwomen Invited To Conferences

Stroudsburg — Members of the Woman's Club of the Stroudsburg have been invited to two special events even before their own meetings begin for the new club season.

With the members of other federated women's clubs of the county, they are invited to the Northeast District meeting of the Pennsylvania Federation to be held at Athens on Sept. 30 with the Bradford County Federation as hosts. The meeting will be held at the Ingersoll-Rand Club House.

They have also been invited to the Middle Atlantic Conference to be held at Cherry Hill Inn, Cherry Hill, N. J., on Oct. 7. Reservations for either event may be made with Mrs. David Katz or Mrs. Arthur Schiebel.

The opening executive board meeting for the Stroudsburg club will be held Oct. 5 at the Stroud Mansion House at 1:30 with the opening luncheon meeting scheduled for Oct. 12 at 1 p.m. at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Reaser Farm Setting For Family Reunion

Snydersville — A reunion bringing together the children and grandchildren, great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild of the late Mr. and Mrs. John E. Reaser was held at the farm home of Robert A. Reaser near Snydersville on Aug. 16.

It was an all-day affair with a picnic dinner and family reminiscences. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Reaser, Snydersville; Allen B. Reaser and son, Jack, Moscow; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reaser, Aven, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reaser, Niagara Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Reaser, Mr. and Mrs. George Primrose and children, Nancy, Penny, Marvin and Donald; Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Rider and Susan and Cindy of Easton; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reaser and children, Harry Jr., John, Bruce, Mary Ellen, Debby and Terryann; Mr. and Mrs. Russel Reis, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Reaser and children, Kathy, Joan and Paul; Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Reaser, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Reaser, David Scott Smith, Mrs. Ethel Culbert, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Reaser and daughter, Marlene, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Eberts and children, Shirley, Norman Jr. and Russell, all of Snydersville.

Mr. and Mrs. William Barringer, Stanley Cain, Annetta Cain, Adrienne Cain of Prospect Park; Mrs. Frances Lee and children, Mary Louise, Walter and David of Harrisburg; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reaser, Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Lee, Jack Lee and daughter, Margaret, Stroudsburg; Mrs. Russell Ebert, Miss Betty Ebert, Paul Swingle, Bethlehem; Mrs. Robert Hawk and sons, Craig and Troy of Snydersville.

Edward Sarokas, brother of the bridegroom, of Somerville, N.J., was best man and Peter Pronitis of Scranton ushered. Following the ceremony, a breakfast for the wedding party was held at Castle Restaurant with a dinner and reception for 200 guests at Green Ridge Club, Scranton, at 6:30.

Leaving for their wedding trip to the New England States and Canada, the bride wore a three-piece suit of white Irish linen trimmed in navy and gold with navy accessories and a white orchid corsage.

They will make their home at 380 Clairmont Ave., Montclair, N.J.

Both are graduates of Technical High School. The bride, who received a bachelor of science degree from East Stroudsburg State College, will teach in the Wayne, N.J., Twp. School. Her husband, who attended Rutgers University is employed at Celanese Corp., Newark, N.J.

The bride was honored at a pre-nuptial party at the Polish Club by Mrs. Frank Butash, Mrs. Edward Sarokas, and her attendants.

Willing Workers Plan Picnic At Playground

Paradise Valley — A covered dish picnic for members and friends of the Willing Workers of Paradise Valley will be held Saturday, Sept. 12 at the Paradise Community Center playground at 5 p.m.

Plans for the picnic were made at a recent meeting of the Willing Workers at the home of Mrs. Harry Niering Jr. Reports of the July bazaar proved it a big success.

Plans were also discussed for a ham supper open to the public to be held in October at Crescent Lodge. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Jeff Ross on Sept. 1.

Present for the meeting were Mrs. Glenn Sanborn III, Mrs. Clarence Wertheimer, Mrs. Harry Niering Jr., Mrs. Charles DeFue, Miss Winnie Goll, Mrs. Harold Heydt, Mrs. Albert Goll and Mrs. Harry Niering Sr.

Dress cooked celery with heavy cream and add a dusting of paprika and a sprinkling of sliced almonds if you want a vegetable that is definitely company fare.

It's a good idea to serve a hot dish on the lunch or supper menu even in warm weather. The hot offering might be cooked ham, water chestnut and green celery.

Bride's Father Performs Baines-Keen Wedding Rites

Mount Bethel — Miss Elizabeth Anne Keen, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Richard J. Keen of Stone Church was married on Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Trinity United Church of Christ, Stone Church, to Edward Baines, son of Mrs. Charles Baines and the late Mr. Baines of Sciota.

The bride's father was assisted by Rev. Clarence Moatz of Allentown in performing the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of silk organza and Alencon lace over taffeta with a detachable train. Her bouffant veil of four tiers of silk illusion was attached to a silk organza rose. She carried a cascade of white glamelia and Baker fern.

Miss Billie Sue Walker of Willingboro, N. J. was maid of honor. She wore a gown of Nile green organza over taffeta with an overskirt and matching picture hat. She carried a cascade of light pink glamelia and Baker fern.

The bridesmaids were Miss Wanda Miller of Bangor, RD 1; Miss Mary Ann Pysher of Stone Church and Mrs. Lee Gardner of Bangor. They wore gowns of pink organza over taffeta with overskirts and matching picture hats. Their flowers were cascades of deep pink glamelia and Baker fern.

Charles Jenkinson of Sciota was best man. Ushers were Richard J. Keen Jr., brother of the bride; John Taylor of Stroudsburg and Charles Cramsey of Easton.

Mrs. Augustus Garis of Stone Church was organist and Miss Beverly Miller of Bath was soloist. After a wedding trip to Florida.

Stroud Club Sets Oct. 24 For Dance

Stroudsburg — The annual dance sponsored by the Stroud Community Woman's Club has been set for Oct. 24 at the American Legion.

A "Roaring Twenties" theme has been set for the dance which is for the benefit of the club's welfare fund.

Mrs. Edward Hardenstein and Mrs. Charles Swisher, co-chairmen, have named the following committees: prizes, Mrs. Thomas Gardner and Mrs. Russell Bergman; tickets, Mrs. Paul Hart; decorations, Mrs. William Bolcar; publicity, Mrs. Lester Katz.

Roger Miller and his Vacation Valley Orchestra will play for the dance.

September Bride-To-Be Is Honored

Stroudsburg — A bridal shower in honor of Miss Fay E. Vaughn, who will be married on Sept. 5 to Royd Tallada of Stroudsburg, was given by her attendants, Mrs. Shirley Carlton, Mrs. Lorraine Singer, Mrs. Carolyn Tallada and Mrs. Judy Cochenour.

The room was decorated in pink and white with pink and white bells. A three-tier cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Carlton in pink and white, was the centerpiece for the buffet table.

Guests were Mrs. Sarah Tallada, Mrs. Donna McNeal, Mrs. Margaret Neipert, Mrs. Mary Dippie, Mrs. Caroline Christman, Mrs. Catherine Platenburg, Mrs. Evelyn Smith, Mrs. Evelyn Bush, Miss Irene Bush, Mrs. Elaine Mutchler, Miss Sherry Carlton, Miss Jan Carlton, Mrs. Aaron Gulavian of Long Island, N.Y., and Mrs. Jane Vaughn.

Also sending gifts were Mrs. Archie Tallada, Mrs. William Post and Miss Ann Williams.

If you want to brown chicken in just a few tablespoons of butter or olive oil (or a mixture of the two) use a heavy skillet and low heat; allow plenty of time!

Mrs. Hubert Humphrey Calm About Convention

By JOY MILLER

AP Women's Editor Atlantic City — "You can't think too far ahead," said Muriel Humphrey calmly, "or you will stumble over today."

The trim, easy-going wife of Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota was discussing her reaction to the possibility President Johnson would select her husband as his running mate.

"I guess I'm like Scarlett O'Hara. I'll think about that tomorrow."

She's Philosophical

The fortunes of politics have always been viewed philosophically by Muriel Humphrey. She was once quoted as saying "I can always take in washing."

"I said that a long time ago. Now with automatic washing, it should be a cinch," she chuckled.

Mrs. Humphrey has been involved in politics with her husband since he won his first election to become mayor of Minneapolis in 1945.

"In coming up the hard way through politics and working with my husband as I did, I felt we could make a living no matter what we did."

Assuming her husband did get the Presidential nod for second place on the ticket, what would she do?

"Well it—and it's an iffy proposition—if and when I'd be working with my husband both in Washington and throughout the country and traveling with him in whatever role would be best. I'd be happy to fit in where I can."

"But I'm looking forward to campaigning again, no matter what."

Small, pixish, with silver hair cut in bangs that make her look younger than her 52 years—and consequently moves most reporters to label her "prematurely gray"—Mrs. Humphrey is a relaxed foil for her effervescent husband.

She likes to sew and play the piano. But family and politics and friends take up most of her time.

Miss Gail Teel To Marry William Pfeiffer

Lawn Festival Is Planned At Aid Meeting

Swiftwater — A lawn festival and bazaar on Thursday, Sept. 3 was planned at the meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of St. Paul's United Church of Christ, Swiftwater.

They plan to have baked goods, fancy work, rugs, hot dogs, coffee and soda on sale. Donations will be appreciated. Since it will be held on the church lawn, a rain date was set for Sept. 1.

At their Sept. 10 meeting, the aid will honor members with birthdays in July, August or September.

A rice salad is fun to prepare for lunch because you can pick and choose (from what is available) to add to it. Here are suggestions: cooked shrimp and ham; cooked green peas and green beans; celery and green onion. To the cold cooked rice with the additions, you choose plus an oil-and-vinegar dressing; serve on crisp salad greens and garnish with tomato.

By Cy Barrett, Jr.

DEAR CY:
Two years ago our daughter and her husband accepted temporary teaching positions in Vermont. They leased a little house to a couple with supposedly good references. I agreed to collect the rent, make repairs and pay for maintenance.

One month before the lease expired, the tenants left suddenly, leaving rent and taking away anything they could carry. They left the house in unmentionable condition. We cleaned and redecorated it and obtained new tenants. The security deposit was also increased.

The new renters turned out to be slow payers, rude and abusive. We are grateful their lease is expiring soon, but our daughter writes and tells us the stay in Vermont will last another year.

Could a really firm do a better job?

MRS. ALEXANDER

DEAR MRS. ALEXANDER:
Deadbeats avoid renting from real estate management firms for a very sound reason. Companies of this type ask penetrating questions most landlords would be embarrassed to utter.

The agent or representative of an owner should ask how many persons are expected to occupy the property, relationship, ages of children, number of pets, income, property owned, breadwinner's job and length of time there, and reason for moving.

Anyone renting furnished premises should be checked with X-ray eyes. Experience shows those who own no furniture are the least considerate of property belonging to others.

Financial soundness may also be open to question. Any prospect claiming to be from out of town and whose references cannot be checked, should be rejected immediately. Real estate management firms are not infallible, but performance is their reason for being.

Talk to a few. Ask what they can do for you.

CY

DEAR CY:
Is it true that the U.S. department of commerce has printed information to give those who would like to get in to exporting and importing?

I have an idea for selling gift items which my wife and I could import. Right now, I don't know who to contact abroad or what gift items would be available.

FLAHERTY

DEAR FLAHERTY:
Under the U.S. department of commerce is the bureau of international commerce. It provides "Trade Lists," which are available for $1 per copy from USDC field offices.

These lists can help you find customers, agents, distributors, licensees and sources of foreign supply. Each gives names and addresses of firms handling a specific commodity in one foreign country.

Included is a summary of basic trade and industry data, including a brief analysis of foreign trade in the commodity covered. (Yours would be "Curios, Novelties, and Handicrafts.") Trade lists are available for about 70 commodities in 60 countries. This is an outstanding government service.

Democratic Convention Opens Today In New Jersey

By Richard Spong
Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON — After the Democratic Convention of 1924, which went to 103 ballots at Madison Square Garden without air conditioning, H. L. Mencken could still write that there was something about a national party convention "as fascinating as a revival or hanging." Conventions were vulgar, ugly, stupid and tedious, to be sure, and yet there suddenly "comes a show so gaudy and hilarious, so melodramatic and obscene, so unimaginably exhilarating and preposterous that one lives a gorgeous year in an hour."

Right there is the paradox of this politically agitated summer. For the first time in eight years the choice of both conventions has been a solid lock long in advance. This year there has been hardly the appearance of a struggle. The G.O.P. convention in San Francisco had a certain kind of fascination, of course, but mostly the observers in the Cow Palace and the weary television watchers were hanging on to see if the American myth might by some kind of miracle prove true and at long last the cavalry would arrive.

The only real suspense the Democrats are offering this year is in the selection of a vice presidential candidate. And President Johnson dumped that excitement considerably on July 30 when he cleared the slate of half a dozen names with one clean sweep of the band.

Television has, of course, tremendously affected the conduct of national nominating conventions. Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, permanent chairman of the G.O.P. convention at San Francisco, has predicted that any deadlock on the nomination would be broken no later than the fourth ballot. Left TV viewers start wondering "about a party that could not decide on its leadership." This was probably an understatement. The day of 103 ballots is long gone. (And the Atlantic City convention hall, incidentally, has been air-conditioned expressly for the Democratic convention.)

Television directly affects convention timing. At San Francisco the convention managers rescheduled a speech by former President Eisenhower and caused the 8,500-word draft platform to be read in its entirety before the amendments were considered. This pushed the divisive platform fight into the late hours for eastern TV watchers.

At least one pundit has suggested that the man to watch at Atlantic City is David L. Lawrence, former Governor of Pennsylvania and a minor prophet of the Democratic party. Lawrence did much to keep his co-religionist John F. Kennedy from getting the vice presidential nomination in 1956.

Orioles Retain First Place In A.L.; Split With White Sox

Two-Way Ties For First, Second Tighten Up Torrid PMBL Race

STROUDSBURG — There's likely to be playoffs before the start of the playoffs in the Pocono Mountain Baseball League this year.

That's the way things shaped up after yesterday's games which saw Kunkletown tie the Stroudsburg A's for first place, and Bushkill tie Reeder's for second.

And the four top teams in the league next week play the second division clubs in what is supposed to be the final Sunday of the regular season.

Major Upset

The Stroudsburg Poconos pulled a major upset by upsetting front-running Stroudsburg A's 3-2 yesterday, while Kunkletown beleaguered Reeder's 16-0, to share the top rung of the PMBL ladder with the A's. Bushkill crushed West End, 16-3, for a share of second place with Reeder's while Saylorsburg trounced Bowmanstown, 7-2.

The Poconos handed the A's their sixth defeat in 20 games behind the strong pitching of Dave Pierson and Warren Loney who held the league leaders to five hits.

Key Hit
The A's led, 2-1, until the eighth when the Poconos pushed across a pair of runs on Ron Bergman's long single down the left field line which scored the tying and winning markers off reliever Hartley Paffenroth.

Charley Chronister started the game for the A's but was tossed out of the ballgame by Plate Umpire James Radler in the seventh after Chronister heaved his glove to the ground in disgust at a called ball.

Freddy Frantz was the only player in the game to get more than one hit, smacking two singles for the Poconos.

Victorious Attack
Kunkletown unleashed a vicious 24-hit attack against Reeder's while Dean Leslie tossed a fifty-three-hitter to gain the only shutout victory of the day. The K-towners held a 6-0 lead before scoring five runs in the seventh and adding five more in the eighth to complete the rout. The win was the 14th against six defeats—same as the A's.

Bushkill climbed up to second place with Reeder's by walloping West End which committed eight errors, allowing six unearned tallies to cross the plate. Bushkill and Reeder's now stand at 12 wins and eight losses, two games off the pace.

Insures Win
Bushkill broke up a scoreless deadlock in the fifth by pushing across three runs and added four more in the sixth to insure the verdict. Curt Hickman and Don Wescott each got two hits for the winners.

Bob Butterworth went the distance, hurling a four-hitter to pick up the win.

Cint Allen went the route for Saylorsburg, scattering seven hits to defeat Bowmanstown. Ron Spinner socked three hits for the Lakers, driving in two runs, while Butch Kresge hit safely twice, driving in one run and scoring three.

Monroe Horse Champs

KUTZTOWN — The Monroe County team of Larry Wolbert, Heather Hendry and Margie Walters won the team championship in Saturday's District 9 4-H Horse and Pony Roundup at the Kutztown Fair.

A total of 97 horses represented six eastern Pennsylvania counties in the competition staged before a crowd of nearly 2,000.

Five Monroe riders placed first in five different events and another placed second. Susan Jarrett and Sandy Vaughn each took two firsts.

All first and second place winners will compete in the state championship tournament in November at Harrisburg.

The Monroe winners were:

Stock seat equitation (junior division)—Margie Walters.
Stock seat equitation (senior division)—Heather Hendry.
Hunter seat equitation (junior division)—Susan Jarrett.
Hunter seat equitation (senior division)—no jumps — Sandy Vaughn, first, and Donna Marsh, second.

Steelers Have Good Chance: Parker

KINGSTON, R.I. (AP) — Buddy Parker gives his Pittsburgh Steelers a better chance to win the National Football League's Eastern Conference title this year than he did a year ago despite the trade of Buddy Dial for a drafted phantom who didn't sign.

Parker has spent most of the off-season defending the Dial deal in which the Steelers sent their flanker back to Dallas for the draft rights to Scott Appleton, the All-America tackle from Texas. Appleton finally decided to sign with Houston in the rival American Football League, leaving Parker without a tackle — and without Dial.

"Just unlucky"
"We were just unlucky that we couldn't sign the boy," said Parker. "If I had to do it all over again, I'd do the same thing but I might not take the same boy. We needed defensive linemen more than we needed Dial."

The hope in Pittsburgh is that Paul Marba, a rookie from Pitt, eventually will take over Dial's job. To ease the pressure on the youngster, Parker has shaken up his receivers.

Talented Gary Ballman has been moved to flanker ahead of Marba and Pres Carpenter slides over to split end, leaving John Powers and rookie Jim Kelley, two Notre Dame grads, to fight it out at tight end.

Came Close
The Steelers came within one game of winning their first championship last fall. A victory over New York on the final day would have given them the title. Instead they lost and dropped all the way to fourth.

"I think we have a better chance to win than I did at this time last year," Parker says. "We don't have too much bench but we should be better if we can stay healthy."

"Last year we ran the ball more than anybody in the league, about 60 per cent of the time. This year I want to see us throw a little more."

If the Steelers do throw more it will be up to Ed Brown, the veteran quarterback whose off-day against the Giants in the 1963 finale proved so costly. Neither Terry Nafziger nor Bill Nelson appear ready to take over.

"A Lot Better"
"Ed is a lot better than he was against the Giants," said Parker. "That was the worst game he ever played."

With receivers like Ballman, Marba, Carpenter and Kelly in the line-up, the Steelers may open up with a little more passing. Dial led the club last year with 60 catches.

John Henry Johnson, still a fierce competitor at 34, and Dick Hoak, a strong runner without breakaway speed, are the top ball carriers. Clarence Peaks, acquired from Philadelphia, backs up Johnson and Theron Sapp, another ex-Eagle, is behind Hoak. Parker likes what he has seen of Dave Fleming, a free agent with no college experience.

Tough Front Line
The experienced front line is made up of center Buzz Nutter, guards Ray Lemek and Mike Sandusky and tackles Charlie Bradshaw and Dan James.

Ben McGee, a No. 4 draftee from Jackson State, has been the surprise of the camp. McGee fits into the starting defensive line at right tackle. Jon Kemp is the other tackle and John Baker and Lou Michaels also backs. Michaels also does the field goal work and Parker thinks his defensive work was season.

STAMP OUT THE BEATLES

BEWARE OF BEATLES

To those who have "beatle trouble" around their house, this is the week to get out the best beetle spray because the "BEATLES" invade Stroudsburg on Wed. night at the Skyline Drive In. The mop haired four will be appearing in their only feature length motion picture "A HARD DAYS NIGHT." There will be 3 SPECIAL BEATLE MATINEES at the Sherman Theatre Fri., Sat. and Sun. at 2:30, all seats 75c. Tickets for BEATLE MATINEES are now on sale at Sherman Box office.
